

Turtles Need Your Help

Massachusetts turtles are in trouble and you can help by volunteering to survey turtles at the Ward Reservation and Harold Parker State Forest.

Turtles face threats from loss of habitat, predators such as skunks and raccoons, illegal collecting and the dangers of crossing the road.

You can help by becoming a citizen scientist and documenting turtles. Your work will help us protect these fascinating creatures. Get started by attending a special program on April 18 or April 25 from 9AM – 12NOON at the Ward Reservation. We'll teach you everything you need to know, from turtle biology basics to survey techniques, and take a field walk to try out your new skills.

For more information on the program please send inquiries to turtlesurvey@ttor.org or tel. 978.682.3580.
